

It Still Pays to Work!

Revisions for 2010

Working can help you feel better about yourself, more active and more independent. If you have been thinking about getting a job, this booklet has information that can help. Inside you will learn about organizations that can answer your questions about:

- Finding a job that is right for you
- Keeping your health care benefits
- Maintaining your cash and other benefits

This booklet was written in 2007. Most of the information is still accurate, but there are some things that have changed since that time. The table on the back of this card shows the page numbers where information has changed and the updated information.

We hope that this booklet will help you find answers to the questions you may have about working. If you decide that getting a job is something you want to do, we hope that the resources in this booklet help you find the job that is right for you.

Updates to the 2007 Edition

Page	Topic	2010 Update
6	Office of Vocational Rehabilitation address	531 Penn Ave Pittsburgh, PA 15222
Page	Topic	2010 Update
16-18	SSDI Trial Work Period	Starting in 2010, months when you earn more than $720 will count towards your Trial Work Period.
Page	Topic	2010 Update
19	Extended Period of Eligibility	In 2010, the 36-month Extended Period of Eligibility will allow you to receive cash benefits for months when you earn less than $1000. You can only use the Extended Period of Eligibility after you have used the 9 months of your Trial Work Period.
Page	Topic	2010 Update
22	Medicaid Benefits Earning Limit	In 2009 you must have made less than $28,699 per year to continue your Medicaid health benefits. In 2010 this amount will change to $29,349.